N.Y. Plot Detailed In Court

Four suspects charged with targeting synagogues, planes

NEWBURGH, N.Y. | The four men were ex-convicts who envisioned themselves as holy warriors, ambitious enough to concoct a plot to blow up synagogues and military planes, authorities said. But they were amateurs every step of the way. They had trouble finding guns and bought cameras at Wal-Mart to photograph their targets.

James Cromitie, David Williams, Onta Williams and Laguerre Payen appeared in court Thursday to answer charges of conspiracy to use weapons of mass destruction within the United States and conspiracy to acquire and use anti-aircraft missiles. They did not enter pleas and were held without bail; they face life in prison if convicted.

The suspects were arrested Wednesday night, shortly after planting a 37-pound mock explosive device in the trunk of a car outside the Riverdale Temple and two mock bombs in the backseat of a car outside the Riverdale Jewish Center — all under the watch of an FBI informant. It was the latest in a long line of homegrown terror plots since Sept. 11 that never came close to reality because the FBI inserted itself in the earliest stages. (AP)

When Zeros Stray, The Money Runs

Police launched an international search for two New Zealanders who allegedly took the money and ran after a bank mistakenly put 10 million New Zealand dollars ($6.1 million) into their account. The couple, who operated a gas station in Rotorua, applied to Westpac Bank for a NZ$10,000 ($6,000) overdraft, but 1,000 times that amount was put in their account. (AP)

Police are looking for two women who pulled off the daring theft of a high-end television set from a Joplin, Mo., Wal-Mart store. Police on Monday said one of the women posed as a Wal-Mart employee and the second played the role of customer Sunday. The duo made off with a 52-inch, flat-screen Samsung TV worth $1,300. Police said that by the time any real employees became suspicious, both women were gone. The faux employee even recruited some real ones to help her load the TV onto a cart. (AP)

Obama, Cheney Spar on Security

President insists that Gitmo detainees can be held safely in U.S.

WASHINGTON | President Obama fought Thursday to retake command of the emotional debate over closing Guantanamo, denouncing "fearmongering" by political opponents and insisting that maximumsecurity prisons in the U.S. can safely house terror suspects transferred from Cuba. In a unique bit of Washington theater, former vice president Dick Cheney delivered his own address just one minute later, defending the Bush administration's creation of the prison camp as vigorously as Obama denounced it.

Obama, appearing at the National Archives, said shutting down Guantanamo would "enlist our values" to make America safer. Speaking a day after a congressional rebuke to his pledge to close the prison, he forcefully declared the camp a hindrance to preventing future terrorist attacks. He contends that the prison motivates U.S. enemies.

work with lawmakers to develop "an appropriate legal regime" for those who can't be tried and are too dangerous to be released. Still, he did not provide the level of detail about his plans that lawmakers demanded in a 90-6 Senate vote denying money for the shutdown.

Cheney, in his own speech, denounced some of Obama's actions in office as "unwise in the extreme" and "recklessness cloaked in righteousness," repeating his contention from a series of appearances recently that the new president is endangering the country by turning aside Bush-era policies. The former vice president accused Obama of looking for "a political strategy, not a national security strategy."

Obama acknowledged that some Guantanamo prisoners will end up in the U.S. under his plan. He argued it would be done safely. "Nobody has ever escaped from one of our 'supermax' prisons, which hold hundreds of convicted terrorists," he said. JENNIFER LOVEN (AP)

Calif. Police Break Up 'Hate Gang'

Authorities: Latino group planned to kill black people in town

LOS ANGELES | A Latino street gang waged a racist campaign to eliminate black people from a Southern California city through attempted murders and other crimes, according to federal racketeering indictments unsealed Thursday.

Five indictments charged a total of 147 members and associates of the Varrio Hawaiian Gardens gang, and federal and local agencies arrested 63 of them by early Thursday, U.S. Attorney Thomas P. O'Brien said.

He called it "the largest gang takedown in United States history" but did not elaborate.

The indictments detail attempted murder, kidnapping, firearms, narcotics and other charges related to attacks by the gang, which is predominantly Latino and mainly operates in Hawaiian Gardens, a city of about 15,000 in southeast Los Angeles County.

"[Varrio Hawaiian Gardens]

gang members take pride in their racism and often refer to the VH Gang as the 'Hate Gang,'" the main indictment states. "VHG gang members have expressed a desire to rid the city of Hawaiian Gardens of all African-Americans and have engaged in a systematic effort to achieve that result by perpetrating crimes against African-Americans."

According to 2000 census data, the latest available, Hawaiian Gardens was roughly 73 percent Hispanic and 4 percent black.

The indictment alleges a string of attacks on black residents, including a shooting into a home with eight people inside.

The indictments mark at least the second time in less than two years that federal authorities have accused Latino gang members of attacking black residents because of their race. THOMAS WATKINS (AP)

Boating Accident Kills 5 Fishermen

HOUMA, LA. | Five men who planned to participate in a week-end fishing tournament died when their 24-foot-long aluminum boat ran under one end of a barge, Louisiana officials said.

Department of Wildlife and Fisheries Capt. Samuel Martin said the boat hit the moored barge late Wednesday but wasn't discovered until sometime Thursday morning. He said the men apparently hit their heads on the barge's slanting underside. Martin said the fishing boat was upright and the bodies were still inside it when it was found. (AP)

Boy Is Found Dead

Police: Woman killed son, revived him, then suffocated him again

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. | Police said Thursday that the mother of a 3-year-old boy found buried at a playground told investigators she suffocated him, had second thoughts and brought him back to life, then changed her mind and suffocated him again.

Police Chief Ray Schultz said Tiffany Toribio, 23, told officers that she and her son, Tyruss "Ty" Toribio, were in Alvarado Park on May 13 and that she suffocated him while he was asleep.

She told detectives she had second thoughts and performed CPR on the boy, reviving him, but again reconsidered and placed her hand over his nose and mouth until he suffocated, Schultz said.

Ty's body was found Friday by a mother who saw his black tennis shoe sticking out of the sand. Police released an artist's rendering of the boy's image on Tuesday, which led to tips about Toribio, Schultz said.

"What makes this story especially sad was when asked the reason why she took Ty's life, Tiffany said that she did not want him to grow up with no one caring about him the same way that she had grown up with no one caring about her," Schultz said.

Schultz said Toribio was being held at the Bernalillo County jail under close observation because she had attempted suicide.

Dozens Killed by Bombings in Iraq

3 American soldiers die in spate of attacks weeks before pullout

BAGHDAD | Bombers struck in Baghdad and a northern city Thursday, killing three American soldiers and nearly two dozen Iraqis in a new spasm of violence that has taken at least 66 lives in two days.

A spate of attacks since April seems aimed at stoking sectarian tension and undermining public confidence only weeks before U.S. combat troops are due to leave Baghdad and other cities, handing security responsibility to Iraq's security forces.

The deadliest blast Thursday occurred in an outdoor market in Baghdad's southern Dora district, when a bomb exploded near an American foot patrol, U.S. and Iraqi officials said.

U.S. officials said three soldiers were killed and an undisclosed number of Americans were wounded. Iraqi police said 12 civilians also were killed and 25 were wounded.

who lives near the market, said he noticed four passengers in a white car watching the Americans as they walked through the area. After the blast, he saw the car speed away with three men inside.

"Thick smoke filled the area, and the shoppers were in panic," he said. "Ambulances arrived, and rescuers started to look for the dead and wounded through the smoke and amid cries for help from the wounded."

The attacks came a day after a car bomb exploded near a group of restaurants in a Shiite neighborhood of Baghdad, killing 41 people. ROBERT H. REID (AP)

Egyptian Guilty of Singer's Murder

Tycoon is sentenced to hang for paying an agent to kill pop diva

CAIRO | Suzanne Tamim shot to fame in an "American Idol"-style TV show, a green-eyed Lebanese beauty whose songs about love's agony mirrored her troubled life.

Now, the man reported to be her secret lover — a married, politically powerful Egyptian tycoon — has been sentenced to hang for paying a former government security agent $2 million to slit her throat, a murder almost as clumsy as it was horrific.

Billionaire Hisham Talaat Moustafa showed no emotion Thursday as he was convicted and sentenced for ordering the killing of Tamim — the latest chapter in the sordid tale of sex, power, money and murder that was closely followed throughout the Mideast.

Tamim

Many had wondered whether the 50-year-old real estate mogul tied to President Hosni Mubarak's son, Gamal, and an influential member of the ruling party, would get away with murder in a region where the rich are often thought to be above the law.

Befitting the drama, the courtroom erupted in chaos after the conviction and sentencing of Moustafa and the former government security officer, Mohsen el-Sukkary, who also faces the gallows. Pandemonium broke out as police and Moustafa's relatives clashed with reporters scrambling to talk to him. Moustafa's sister fainted, and his two daughters burst into tears. MAGGIE MICHAEL (AP)

U.K. Swine Flu Tactics Doubted

LONDON | Flu experts are looking very closely at Britain — and some have decided that the U.K.'s swine flu-fighting tactics may be hiding a much larger outbreak.

Britain has 112 confirmed swine flu cases. Authorities have relied on an aggressive strategy to try to snuff out the virus before it spreads, blanketing suspect cases and anyone linked to them with the antiviral medication Tamiflu.

But experts say trying to contain swine flu isn't helpful. "It's like trying to maintain the integrity of your submarine with screen doors," said Michael Osterholm, a flu expert at the University of Minnesota. (AP)

Pakistan Donations Top $200M

Allies, U.N. attempt to ease crisis as 1.9M are homeless in NW

ISLAMABAD | Donations to help refugees fleeing Pakistan's latest offensive against the Taliban surpassed $200 million Thursday, as the country's allies sought to ease a crisis that risks eroding public support for military action against the militants.

About 1.9 million people have fled the fighting in the northwestern Swat Valley and surrounding areas, a mountainous region not far from the Afghan border where the Taliban have found safe haven in recent years. More than 160,000 are staying in camps just south of the battle zone; the rest have been taken in by relatives.

The United Nations has set up tent schools at the camps. At one on Thursday, teachers drilled dozens of kids sitting cross-legged on mats in numbers and letters before giving the pupils biscuits as an incentive for them to return.

"Children have to continue to go to school," said Daniel Poole, regional director of the U.N.'s children fund after visiting the school. "It's what makes things feel normal again."

The army claims it has killed more than 1,000 militants and won back swaths of territory in the region, but it faces stiff resistance from up to 5,000 well-trained and equipped fighters and has ventured no prediction of when the Taliban will be defeated.

On Thursday, it said five soldiers and an unspecified number of Taliban were killed in battles in several parts of the valley during the previous 24 hours. CHRIS BRUMMITT (AP)

Japan Leads World in Longevity

WHO reports women in Asian nation have longest life expectancy

GENEVA | Girls born in Japan today are likely to live until the year 2095, some with a good chance of seeing the dawn of the next century, thanks to the world's longest life expectancy.

Japan's child mortality rates are also among the world's lowest, according to statistics published Thursday by the World Health Organization and based on figures for 2007 — the latest available.

For every 1,000 babies of both sexes born in Japan, 996 will make

The tiny nation of San Marino boasts the longest average life span for men anywhere, at 81 years.

Children in the West African country of Sierra Leone and Afghanistan are at the other end of the scale. About a quarter will die before the age of 5, and overall life expectancy is short.

Some nations, including Eritrea and Liberia, have made remarkable progress in increasing life expectancy since 1990, the data showed.

Family, friends pay respects to man killed by U.S. soldier in Iraq

FEDERALSBURG, MD. | Hundreds of people crowded a tiny funeral home on Maryland's Eastern Shore on Thursday to say goodbye to Pfc. Michael Edward Yates Jr., 19, who was killed by a fellow soldier in Iraq last week.

Yates, known to friends and family as Mikey, was in his dress

Army uniform in his open flag-draped casket, on which the satin lining was embroidered with hunting and fishing scenes in honor of his favorite activities. An Army chaplain offered prayers while classmates from Colonel Richardson High School dried one another's tears.

"He was always the life of the party; everybody knew Mikey," said friend Rachel Adkins.

Yates was killed May 11 when Sgt. John M. Russell allegedly

House Bill To Define Nuptials

Legislation would limit D.C. marriage as between man, woman

WASHINGTON | Some lawmakers are introducing a bill in the House to define marriage in the District of Columbia as between one man and one woman.

Thursday's introduction of the D.C. Defense of Marriage Act comes several weeks after the city council voted to recognize same-sex marriages performed in other jurisdictions.

Congress has until July to review the council measure, and if it takes no action the legislation becomes law. Some council members say it's the first step toward eventually allowing gay marriages to be performed in Washington.

Rep. Jim Jordan, R-Ohio, says he's among about 30 lawmakers co-sponsoring the House bill. (AP)

Rich Dad Poor Dad

My Poor Dad would say,
“I Work For My Money.”
My Rich Dad said,
“My Money Works For Me.”
- Robert Kiyosaki

One dad was highly educated and intelligent; he had a Ph.D. and had completed four years of undergraduate work in less than two years. He then went to do his advanced studies... all on full financial scholarships.

My other dad never finished the eighth grade. Both men were successful in their careers, working hard all their lives. Both earned substantial incomes.

Yet my highly educated dad struggled financially all his life and the other dad would become one of the richest men I had ever known. One died leaving tens of millions of dollars to his family, charities, and his church. The other left a legacy of unpaid bills. Both men were strong, charismatic, and influential.

Both men offered me advice, but they did not advise the same things. Having two dads as advisors offered me the perspective of contrasting points of view: one of a rich man and one of a poor man. This forced me to think about, and ultimately choose, a way of thinking for myself. A way of thinking that assures long-term wealth and true prosperity!

Experts: Nothing to Fear at Pump

Analysts don't expect gas prices to soar like they did last summer

HOUSTON | As tens of millions tank up and hit the road for Memorial Day weekend, gas prices are rising fast enough to revive painful memories of the $4-a-gallon summer of 2008.

Rest easy: The economic slack created by the recession all but guarantees prices won't spike the way they did last year, analysts say.

On Thursday, a gallon of unleaded averaged $2.36. That's much cheaper than the $3.80 it Gas prices are displayed in Omaha, Neb., on Thursday. The average cost for a gallon of regular gas in the U.S. was $2.36 Thursday. It was $3.80 at this time in 2008.

cost this time last year.

Vacations make a lot more sense for many families this year than they did last year. Airfare, hotel rooms and tourist attractions are all cheaper this year than last because of the relentless recession.

Gas is no exception. For much of this year, there has been a glut of gasoline in storage across the country, keeping prices low. And demand has been light because of the poor economy.

Even the kind of cataclysmic event that sends gas prices into a spike, like a hurricane in the oil-rich Gulf of Mexico, probably won't push gas past $4 a gallon this summer, analysts say.

So, how high will gas go?

Darin Newsom, senior energy analyst at DTN in Omaha, Neb., said he expects the average price for regular unleaded to push $2.80 a gallon this summer. Even if a devastating hurricane strikes, he thinks prices will stay below $3.10 a gallon.

These days, Al Thomas can fill his 1999 Ford Expedition for about $40. Last summer, it cost him twice that much.

"It definitely has an effect on the way you spend money," said Thomas, who works as a manager at one Houston eatery and a bartender at another. "You might not go out to eat as much, or even visit relatives. It was the topic of every conversation last summer. I hope that's not the case this year."

UAW Members to Vote On New Deal With GM

Workers will consider concessions that may help company survive

DETROIT | The United Auto Workers union has agreed on a tentative deal with the government and General Motors Corp. that would cut labor costs, close factories and change the way a union-run trust for retiree health care is funded.

The move is a key step toward GM's efforts to restructure outside of bankruptcy court, but GM still needs bondholders who hold $27 billion in unsecured debt to accept equity in the company in place of the $27 billion they're owed. Analysts have said it is nearly impossible that the required 90 percent of bondholders will agree to the offer.

GM, which has received

$15.4 billion in federal loans, faces a June 1 government deadline to restructure or be forced into bankruptcy.

61

The number of hourly workers, in thousands, who are employed by General Motors in the U.S.

The union announced its deal in a short statement Thursday, but the details were withheld pending meetings with members to explain the terms.

Union members still have to vote on their deal.

The UAW statement made no mention of factory closures or production of vehicles outside the U.S., items that the union has protested in Detroit and Washington as the deadline approaches. But a person briefed on the deal said Thursday that it includes an agreement on the factories. TOM KRISHER (AP)

Nationals reliever Kip Wells looks at a loss during Washington's 12-7 defeat by the Pittsburgh Pirates on Monday. The bullpen is at the root of the Nats' woes this year.

The Worst of Times

When the Nats call the bullpen, it's the beginning of the end

NATIONALS | Sometime around the middle innings, Randy St. Claire inevitably rises from his seat in the Washington Nationals' dugout. The pitching coach turns to his left, takes a few steps and picks up the dugout phone, getting his relievers ready.

It's no coincidence that this is about the same time fans start to get nervous. With few exceptions this season, when the Nationals make that call to the bullpen, bad things are about to happen.

"It was just sad to see the way things are going with our bullpen," manager Manny Acta told reporters this week. "I've been in the game for a while, and I've never seen anything like it."

CAN'T GET ANY RELIEF

Manager Manny Acta has been looking for solutions for the Nationals' bullpen woes since Opening Day. None seems to be coming:

6.68

The Nationals' bullpen ERA through Wednesday — a rate well above the record of 6.16 set by the Tampa Bay Rays in 2007.

13

The number of Nats pitchers used in the bullpen through Wednesday.

19

The number of save opportunities the team has had this season.

6

The number of save opportunities the team has successfully converted.

39

The age of Rob Villone, the team's most successful reliever right now.

No one has.

The 6.68 ERA posted through Wednesday by the Washington bullpen is the highest in baseball. Should the relievers maintain this pace, they'll surpass the 2007 Tampa Bay Devil Rays (6.16 ERA) as the worst bullpen ever.

Of Nationals relievers with more than 10 innings pitched, Joe Beimel's 5.63 ERA is best. In 19 save opportunities, the club has successfully closed out only six.

So far this season, more than a dozen pitchers have made the slow jog in from the pen. The most successful has been 39-year-old lefty Ron Villone, who hadn't given up a run in nine appearances through Wednesday. The Nationals this week demoted struggling starter Daniel Cabrera into a long relief role and called up Jason Bergmann from Triple-A Syracuse. They also sent ineffective right-hander Garrett Mock to Syracuse.

Through Wednesday, the club had lost seven straight games, with the bullpen earning the loss in five of them. Joel Hanrahan was the offender Wednesday against Pittsburgh. He gave up three hits and a walk in the ninth before bouncing a slider to the backstop, allowing the winning run to cross the plate.

Hanrahan and his bullpen mates are not oblivious to the situation or the tenuous hold many of them have on their jobs.

"We already have the worst bullpen stats in the league, and if they change us out, they'll change us out," Hanrahan said. "We've just got to go out there and kind of say, 'This is what we're going to do, this is what we've got, and we're coming after you.'" DEREK TURNER

BOOKING Grudge Match Vince McMahon says he's being thrown out. His opponent insists McMahon is the double-crosser. It'd make a good story line for a wrestling feud — but it won't take place in Denver. World Wrestling Entertainment is moving its Monday night show to L.A. because Denver's Pepsi Center had also booked Game 4 of the NBA's Western Conference finals. "They bumped us right out of the building, hardly an apology," McMahon said. "They wanted to give us a Sunday night. And the name of the show is 'Monday Night Raw.'" (AP)

NATIONALS | BY MATT SWENSON

A Midsummer Classic's Dream

CONSIDER THIS: The Washington Nationals will not play a game on national television this season if the schedule holds true to form. It makes sense. Who wants to watch the worst team in baseball play? Not even Washingtonians, who continue to leave a beautiful new ballpark pristine by not filling its seats. None of this is news, of course. What's becoming apparent, though is that on one of the sport's biggest stages, at least a few Nationals could be front and center. If fairness wins out — a big stretch, I know — Washington should send at least two, if not three, representatives to the All-Star Game.

If fairness wins out, Washington should send at least two, if not three, representatives to the All-Star Game.

not three, representatives to the All-Star Game. Better yet, the Nats could take up the entire left side of the infield for a stretch during the Midsummer Classic. Third baseman Ryan Zimmerman, owner of the season's longest hitting streak (30 games) and a .355 average, is a shoo-in for his first trip. Shortstop Cristian Guzman is hitting an NL-best .377 entering Thursday. Last, there is outfielder Adam Dunn, whose 12 homers are tied for fifth in all of baseball. With a lack of national TV coverage, none of these deserving players will likely be voted on. But when the game starts, you'd hope baseball's worst would show it still has some pieces it can show off.

WHO WEARS THE BIGGER HAT? NEITHER.

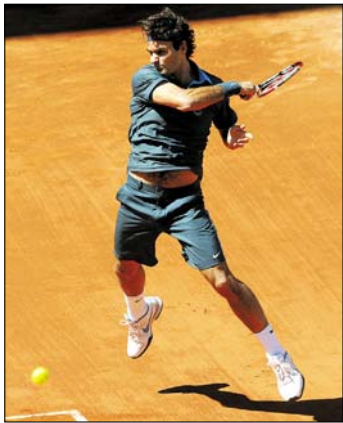

When the Nationals arrived in town in 2005, there were high hopes for a heated rivalry with the Orioles. But while there is some level of friendly competition between fans, the annual interleague series have lacked any real venom. Perhaps to blame for the blandness is that neither club has been especially good since they've co-existed. In fact, parallels between the clubs during that time are remarkable as they open a three-game series Friday at Nationals Park. DEREK TURNER

Federer Counts on the Power of One

Is victory over Nadal enough to end career draught at French?

TENNIS | Can one match really change everything? Roger Federer certainly hopes so. Rafael Nadal certainly thinks not. Can one win over Nadal — in a final, on clay, last weekend — reverse Federer's recent malaise? Can it perhaps even point him toward a title at the French Open, the only Grand Slam tournament he hasn't won?

Can one loss to Federer chip away at Nadal's sense of superiority? Can it perhaps even portend an end to his unbeaten run at Roland Garros, where he will try to win a record fifth-consecutive championship and take the second step toward a true Grand Slam? This much is indisputable: Federer's victory over Nadal at the Madrid Open simultaneously gave the Swiss star his first tournament title in more than six months and ended the Spaniard's 33-match winning streak on clay. Those facts alone at least change the conversation heading into the French Open, which starts Sunday. "I am very excited about going to Paris, whereas a couple of weeks ago, I was still a little bit unsure about my game," Federer said. With 13 major titles, Federer needs one to tie Pete Sampras. With six, Nadal is gaining. Federer bids again to become the sixth man with a career Grand Slam, while Nadal's Australian victory means he can eye the first calendar-year Grand Slam by a man since Rod Laver's in 1969. "He definitely has a chance," Federer said. HOWARD FENDRICH (AP)

Padres Ace Peavy Turns Down Trade to White Sox

Jake Peavy is staying with the San Diego Padres. The ace pitcher turned down a trade to the Chicago White Sox, choosing Thursday to remain in the National League. The Padres and White Sox had reached an agreement, but needed the 2007 Cy Young Award winner to waive his no-trade clause. "San Diego is the best place for us, right this second. It's been a crazy 24 hours," Peavy said Thursday. (AP)

With thousands swaying to gospel tunes, Wayman Tisdale was remembered Thursday as a basketball star and gifted musician. Tisdale played 12 seasons in the NBA for the Indiana Pacers, the Sacramento Kings and

New Ownership for United

Stadium frustration boils over as Will Chang takes control

UNITED | The frustration surrounding D.C. United's inability to secure the land and government support required to construct a mixed-use development anchored by a soccer stadium appears to have gotten the best of co-owner and real estate mogul Victor MacFarlane, who has sold his share in the club to partner Will Chang. Financial terms of the deal were not disclosed.

The pair led a consortium that purchased United in January 2007 for a reported $33 million, with designs on making the club the centerpiece of a development project on the banks of the Anacostia River. But that project and a subsequent effort in Prince George's County failed, leading MacFarlane to say Thursday that he has chosen to "devote greater attention" to his San Francisco-based firm and "my project in multiple cities."

Chang, who also owns part of the San Francisco Giants, is a regular at RFK Stadium and has been known to tailgate with fans prior to games. He said that he is "confident

It was only two years ago that Victor MacFarlane, center — with Will Chang, left — was introduced as D.C. United's owner. He sold his stake in the team Thursday.

He told The Washington Post that he is "not actively looking" for a new partner and that his philosophy regarding the pursuit of a new home for United will be a bit different than MacFarlane's. "I'm not looking for a big real estate deal as part of a stadium project. I'm looking for a bread-and-butter stadium," he said.

"I have not been approached by anyone in any official capacity from any other city," he continued. "We want to stay here. Is there a sense of urgency to get something

Kanaan Looking to Break the Curse

Brazilian driver may be best to have never won Indianapolis 500

AUTO RACING | Tony Kanaan finds it laughable when people start to talk about his bad luck in the Indianapolis 500.

The fun-loving Brazilian is probably the best active IndyCar driver never to have won the sport's biggest event. Still, he can't bring himself to think of either his close calls or his failures here as some kind of jinx.

"I've led [the race] every time I've been here, something nobody else has [done], and I haven't started worse than sixth," Kanaan said last week while relaxing before practice in the Andretti Green Racing garage. "You can't say this place is bad luck for me. I just haven't nailed it yet."

In Kanaan's first seven tries on the famed 2.5-mile Brickyard oval, the annual prerace favorite has five finishes of 12th or better, including third in 2003, second in 2004, eighth in 2005 and fifth in 2006.

"Because it's Indianapolis, people make a big deal about it," he said.

"I don't think I have bad luck here. I just think I haven't had the luck to win. But I've been fortunate with what I have done. It's hard to win a race and even harder to pick the race that you want to win.

"I don't think this place owes me anything, and I've just got to keep trying." MIKE HARRIS (AP)

Tony Kanaan hasn't won the Indy 500 but has five finishes of 12th or better.

A Net Collection of Greatness

NCAA lax semis have a player-of-the-year candidate per squad

MEN'S COLLEGE LACROSSE | Four schools. Four player-of-the-year candidates. One trophy.

While each program will bring distinct strengths — and superstars — to this weekend's final four of the NCAA Division I Men's Lacrosse Championship in Foxborough, Mass., there's not necessarily a consensus about who'll be hoisting the trophy Monday afternoon. One thing these three games won't be short on is story lines.

Defending champ Syracuse

Virginia beat Johns Hopkins 19-8 on its way to the NCAA Division I Men's Lacrosse Championship final four. It faces No. 5 Cornell on Saturday for a shot at the title.

THE LACROSSE FINAL FOUR

- Syracuse player to watch: Matt Abbott, a senior two-way midfielder
- Duke player to watch: Ned Crotty, a senior attacker

NO. 1 VIRGINIA VS. NO. 5 CORNELL

- When: Saturday at 2 p.m.
- Virginia player to watch: Danny Glading, a senior attacker
- Cornell player to watch: Max Seibald, a senior midfielder

(14-2) will take on No. 3 Duke, the reigning ACC champ that is regarded by many as the best program to never have won a Division I men's title.

In the other semifinal, top-seeded Virginia (14-2) — the only team from the lacrosse-rich Mid-Atlantic in the mix — faces No. 5 Cornell (12-3), which it already beat once this season.

In fact, familiarity is a theme this weekend: Each of these four teams has both defeated and lost to another Final Four participant this season. Cornell has actually played all three of its potential opponents but managed to beat only Duke.

"It's really going to come down to who takes care of the simple things," said Virginia's Danny Glading, a Georgetown Prep alum who is one of four Tewaaraton Trophy finalists who'll play this weekend. ERIC BRANDNER

THE STYLE NETWORK

Trish Suhr

'CLEAN HOUSE' CO-STAR, YARD SALE QUEEN

Don't be fooled by Trish Suhr's honey-soaked Southern twang. The peppy, Kentucky-born co-star of the Style network's "Clean House" (check local listings) is ruthless when it comes to ridding people of their clutter. This week, Suhr and crew started their quest for the messiest home in the country, which wraps up July 1 with a two-hour special on the most offensive abode.

You're just back from filming the search for the messiest home. Did you find it?

I believe we did. I will tell you that once you think you've seen it all, there's always more. When you start to see the homes on the show, you won't think it could get any worse — and it does. It just keeps blowing your mind.

I bet many of us will be shocked at seeing how others live. Do messy people seem like regular folks?

Yep, they do! I would love to say that there's some formula for what a clutter bug looks like, but they're just as everyday normal as you or me. You'd probably even think, "This person seems neat as a pin." And then you walk through the door and think, "How are you even living like this?"

How does it get that bad?

Some people get overwhelmed. Some just give up. We've encountered everything from people who live with actual live monkeys to triplets who acted like monkeys.

I'm sure seeing a lot of these homes will help viewers feel better about their own messes.

You definitely won't be feeling as guilty about just having a few extra dresses hanging in the closet.

It can be hard to throw things away, even when you know you should.

We all will justify all day long about the goofiest things in the world that we think we need to have. I, myself, kept a prom dress for 10 years. Where did I think I was going to wear that again? I finally donated it to an organization that rents prom dresses to girls who can't afford to buy their own.

What's the biggest pitfall people face when purging?

I think when they say, "OK, this weekend we're going to clean the whole house." That's just not realistic. If you just do it room by room, and take the time to do it well, it's much less overwhelming.

Have you seen some true clothes-horses on the show?

This one woman had a 500-square-foot closet. It had windows and a chandelier inside, and she didn't even know it. When we had our yard sale, 90 percent of the pieces we sold still had tags on them.

Women can justify anything when it comes to their wardrobes.

We just did a show where we sold a pair of Louboutins at a yard sale. The woman had bought them in Las Vegas — she had won a lot of money and went straight to the Louboutin store at the casino. And they didn't even fit her! They were too small, but she had really wanted that pair. Wouldn't you rather have the $800? In three years, you won't even remember those shoes.

EVENT HORIZON Save on Chic: Old Town boutiques Hysteria and the Shoe Hive are merging their old merch to create a new sale outlet. Dubbed the Attic and located above Hysteria (125 S. Fairfax St., Alexandria; 703-548-1615), the new space will discount designer clothes and shoes up to 80 percent. Pop by Fri.-Sun. for the grand opening, or from 11 a.m. - 6 p.m. Wed.-Thu. after this weekend.

Hip Chip, Hooray!

THIS IS THE KIND OF COOKING anyone can do: The Kettle Create-a-Chip Challenge ($14.99, Kettlechipchallenge.com) supplies snack connoisseurs with four bags of plain old potato chips and seven seasoning blends (including sour cream & chive, sweet chili and roasted tomato). Your job is to sprinkle whatever combo your tongue desires — feeling free to raid your own spice rack — and develop a party pleaser. Good luck topping our brilliant recipe: black truffle salt, cheddar and lemon butter.

4 Tower of Flowers?

BARACK AND MICHELLE have enough space (and staff) for both a vegetable patch and a rose garden. But if your balcony/deck/postage stamp-size backyard isn't as capacious as the First Fam's, Smith and Hawken's Stack and Grow Planter ($39, Smithandhawken.com) could get you gardening, albeit on a small scale. The plastic, layered pot system boasts 16 planting pockets, each the right size for a pansy, a mini-cactus or, heck, a basil plant or two. Add trays ($10 each, Smithandhawken.com) to create a studio apartment Eden.

Going to Nursery Cool

SPAWNING A MINI-YOU used to mean abandoning your hip, Domino mag-imitating modern style. But in "Feathering the Nest" ($30, Stewart, Tabori & Chang), stylist/author Tracy Hutson shows and tells how you can have a kiddo and still decorate like a hipster. Crisp photos — many of Hutson's own children's rooms — illustrate attractive, eco-friendly ideas for making Junior's space cool: Stash onesies in an antique Chinese cabinet, snap up bamboo bedding to keep babies comfy and frame inexpensive images from a calendar for instant wall art. Do-it-yourself projects — such as an easy-to-assemble lamp — insure that your nest-feathering instincts aren't wasted on pasting up a hideous teddy bear wallpaper border.

WE'RE OLD ENOUGH

to know that sunscreen is a daily essential but vain enough to hate the greasy, pore-clogging residue most UV blockers leave behind. The new powder sunscreen from cult mineral makeup line BareMinerals ($28, Beauty.com) delivers ray protection that's as strong as a lotion, with the added benefit of complexion-fixing coverage (in light, medium and dark shades) and a handy, purse-size tube. Not only is your skin safe from wrinkles, but it stays pimple-free, too.

SLINKY SANDALS, round-toed pumps and punchy flats star in the new Union Station outpost of accessories, Shoe Woo (first-floor concourse; 202-216-9490). Rows of haute heels line the shelves of brightly papered armoires, and bags and scarves dangle tantalizing from vintage-y coat racks in this bright, boudoir-ish boutique, which features mid-priced brands such as Joan & David, Nine West and Bandolino (they share the same parent company). You'll have to brave the station's tourist traffic to reach the shop, but those concourse-jamming bus groups fade quickly once ensconced in the store's plush, pink, oversize parlor chairs.

ANSWERS FROM THE SHOE BLOGGER

At 40, I am a lawyer and an about-to-be divorced mother to a 6-year-old son. I need shoes that will lighten the stresses on my soul, fun shoes that I can wear with capri pants to the playground that will tell the other mothers that, even though I am an under-paid single mother, I still rock in my soul. — MONICA

■ Manolo says, ever since he wrote about the curative power of shoes the few weeks ago, he has been receiving letters such as this. It is because Dr.

Manolo, specialist in medicine of the broken heart, refuses to put the sugar-coating on the bitter pills he prescribes. If you wish to wash that man right out of your hair, go shoe shopping.

No time to wallow in self-pity! Rush to the nearest shoe sale, stat! This is the emergency! Can you not see that this woman needs shoes? Here is the Vera from Kate Spade ($160, Zappos.com), the pom-pom skimmer in red tumbled leather. Dr. Manolo says take two of these and call your best friend in the morning to gloat.

Ask the Manolo a question at manolo@shoeblogs.com. Visit the Manolo at shoeblogs.com.

SPLASH FROM THE PAST

Raquel Welch, Marilyn Monroe and other screen sirens knew the power of a not-so-teeny bikini (or a curve-hugging maillot). Now, designers seem to be dreaming of these bygone beach babes: They've resurrected high-waisted bottoms, 1940s-style ruching and vintage-inspired prints on swimsuits. "Fashion has gone as far as it can in terms of sexy," says Katie Echeverry of Unique-vintage.com, known for its pinup girl styles. Try these slink or swim pieces, and you'll be ready for the beach, pool or your close-up. ASHLEY JOY PARKER ➔ Go Bond girl in Juicy Couture's bikini top and boy shorts ($89 and $98, Bloomingdale's, 5300 Wisconsin Ave., Chevy Chase; 240-744-3700), hoops, a bracelet and Nine West pumps ($80, $75 and $70, South Moon Under).

Norma Kamali's already iconic one-piece ($350, Normamakamalicollection.com) camouflages figure flaws with vampy ruching. Play up its Esther Williams-gone-mod vibe with a swim cap ($28, Unique-vintage.com) and Michael Antonio sandals ($49, South Moon Under).

More Betty Boop than Bette Davis, Unique Vintage's cherry-print maillot ($70, Unique-vintage.com) whoops it up with "Tres Noir" sunglasses and an oversized cocktail ring ($90 and $38, Unique-vintage.com).

On a holiday to Havana — or just lounging around your apartment pool — go Carmen Miranda exotic in Cyn & Luca's floral two-piece ($169, Butterfliesandbikinis.com), shown with wooden bracelets and Marc by Marc Jacobs shades ($28 and $98, South Moon Under).

A Robotic Reboot

A well-loved franchise is technologically amped up in 'Terminator Salvation'

FILM | We have seen the future, and the future is noisy. This fourth flick in the "Terminator" saga takes place in 2018, 14 years after Judgment Day. John Connor is a rising force in the resistance against Skynet, the artificial intelligence network that started thinking for itself and eradicating humanity, but he has yet to become its leader.

'TERMINATOR SALVATION'

→ DIRECTOR: McG
→ STARS: Christian Bale, Sam Worthington
→ IN A NUT-SHELL: In 2018, John Connor is a rising force in the resistance against Skynet.
→ FOR FANS OF: The first three "Terminator" flicks.

He has seen destruction and listened to the recordings left by his mother that foretell his future, but he has yet to send anyone back in time in hopes of stopping it, including the man who will become his father.

(You definitely need to have seen the first three movies to have a clue as to what's going on here. This is no time to play catch-up. Being a fan also helps.)

Director McG, of the "Charlie's Angels" movies, drops into this well-established lore and presents a post-apocalyptic world that is repetitively bleak and relentlessly loud. Even things that shouldn't be noisy, such as lighting a flare, sound like a rocket launch.

Christian Bale steps into the role of John Connor and does the same voice he uses when he dons the black suit for the "Batman" movies. John must find and protect his future father, Kyle Reese (Anton Yelchin), while trying to determine whether to trust the mysterious Marcus Wright (Sam Worthington) to help in this quest. CHRISTY LEMIRE (AP)

Christian Bale and Sam Worthington play resistance fighters.

Arnold's in It, Kinda

It wouldn't be a "Terminator" movie without the Terminator, right? Despite ARNOLD SCHWARZENEGGER'S having a politician's busy schedule, he still stars in "Salvation" — in voice and CGI form.

Other Recent Franchise Reboots

The fourth "INDIANA JONES" movie, which delivered new characters and aimed to revitalize the series nearly 20 years after the original trilogy was completed, drew criticism from fans and was skewered by the kids of "South Park."

The fourth film in the "X-MEN" franchise was the recently released "X-Men Origins: Wolverine." This film also generated a wide mix of reviews, only 37 percent of them positive, according to Rottentomatoes.com.

"STAR TREK," directed by J.J. Abrams, ushered in new faces as familiar characters. Aimed at satisfying hard-core fans while attracting new ones, the film was well-received by critics, scoring a 95 percent on Rottentomatoes.com.

The JAMES BOND franchise got an infusion of life when it cast Daniel Craig as a less-polished Bond in 2006's "Casino Royale." The film and its follow-up, "Quantum of Solace," each grossed more than $168 million.

Check out the ethereal vocal stylings of St. Vincent tonight at the Black Cat.

FRIDAY

St. Vincent — aka angel-voiced multi-instrumentalist Annie Clark — is going to be famous someday. Well, famous enough that one day in a few years your mom will come up to you and say, "Hey honey, I heard a really interesting piece on NPR today about this St. Vincent!" It said she was playing at Strathmore and I thought we should go!" Savor her being small-time while you can, and catch her at the BLACK CAT.

SATURDAY

Mustafa Akbar is one of the most famous doormen in town, thanks to his position as the arbiter of who gets into Eighteenth Street Lounge. But the tall, dreadlocked Akbar should be better known as a singer than a roadblock. Check out a live performance at the album release party at — where else? — EIGHTEENTH STREET LOUNGE.

SUNDAY

Long weekend? Love to dance? You know DJ Dredd's there for you. Tonight's back-to-back-to-back battle of the songs of Prince, Madonna and Michael Jackson at the BLACK CAT has the air of "hasn't he done this before?" but if you've seen Dredd, you know he's not sleepwalking through these sets. Few turntablists in D.C. can rock a party as deftly, and when the record selection is as stocked with hits, you know that the crowd will be singing along and getting down.

ROLES Aka Party Boy Chris Pontius has booked a room in Sofia Coppola's "Somewhere." The "Jackass" trouper will play Sammy, best friend of the character played by Stephen Dorff, a bad-boy actor living at the Chateau Marmont in West Hollywood. Dorff's character begins to re-examine his life after a surprise visit from his 11-year-old daughter (Elle Fanning). Coppola, who wrote, directed and produced "Marie Antoinette" and "Lost in Translation," is doing the same for "Somewhere." (THE HOLLYWOOD REPORTER)

More Is a Little Too Much

'Night at the Museum' sequel suffers due to excessive ambition

FILM | "Night at the Museum: Battle of the Smithsonian" is one of those sequels in which "bigger" is supposed to mean "better," in which more characters, more sight gags and more adventures are supposed to add up to more fun. They don't.

The follow-up to the 2006 hit "Night at the Museum" heaps on the historical figures and crams them into two museums, with the result feeling crazed, scattered and desperate. Many new characters have been added to the ones who appeared in the original, and director Shawn Levy flits between them at such a zippy pace, no one gets much of a chance to register.

Besides returning stars Ben Stiller, Ricky Gervais, Owen Wilson, Steve Coogan and Robin Williams, now we have Amy Adams, Hank Azaria, Christopher Guest, Jonah Hill and Bill Hader. Having said all that, kids are the primary targets for a lot of the visuals and will probably enjoy themselves.

Stiller gets smacked around by two capuchin monkeys this time, and the T-Rex skeleton that acts like a playful pup should provoke some giggles. Stiller, as former night guard Larry Daley, returns to Manhattan's Museum of Natural History and discovers that the friends who came to life in the middle of the night are being shipped off to storage at the Smithsonian in Washington. And so he must step into action and save them, while also battling the Egyptian ruler Kahmunrah (Azaria).

ANGELS & DEMONS (PG-13, 138 minutes) Praying for another $750 million absolution at the global box office, the fairly unholy trinity of Tom Hanks, director Ron Howard and “The Da Vinci Code” author Dan Brown reteam on Brown’s earlier novel and manage to be more obscure than a Latin Mass. As Robert Langdon, Hanks is recruited by a mysterious emissary of a mysterious biotech firm to help explain the mysterious death of a mysterious scientist whose chest was branded by his killer with the word “Illuminati,” an ancient league of science-minded elites. What the killer was after was antimatter, which the killer promises will be used to level St. Peter’s Basilica. As he embarks on a mission to save Roman Catholicism, Langdon encounters a young papal assistant (Ewan McGregor) a churlish Vatican policeman (Stellan Skarsgård) and an imperious cardinal (Armin Mueller-Stahl). The filmmakers may have faith, but they also know that God helps those who help themselves. (JA) DUPLICITY (PG-13, 125 minutes) Tony Gilroy’s romantic espionage caper pits two pharmaceutical companies against each other. Burkett & Randle, led by Howard Tully (Tom Wilkinson), has discovered a cream that will revolutionize the industry. Equikrom, led by Richard Garsik (Paul Giamatti) needs to steal the secret to that lotion. And there’s romance, of sorts. Behind the scenes, Claire Stenwick (Julia Roberts) and Ray Koval (Clive Owen) work their nefarious magic, he on Equikrom’s side, she on Burkett & Randle’s. But are they both really working for each other? And can they really trust each other?

HOLY BLOCKBUSTER! Tom Hanks and Ayelet Zurer do their best to look slightly horrified in “Angels and Demons,” Ron Howard’s sequel to “The Da Vinci Code.”

seen. It does have great actors slumming as vague philosophical notions, though. Bill Murray, Tilda Swinton, John Hurt and Gael García Bernal pass in front of Jarmusch’s camera and say weird things. A lone man in a sharkskin suit (Isaach De Bankolé) encounters each of them while on an undefined criminal mission in Spain. He must rely on these strange people to lead him from clue to clue, location to location, till he arrives at his mark. (DZ)
MANAGEMENT (R, 93 minutes) Traveling alone on business, an attractive single woman named Sue (Jennifer Aniston) checks into a seedy Arizona roadside motel, only to find the tongue-tied night manager, Mike (Steve Zahn), lurking outside her door with a bottle of cheap wine, “compliments of the management.” “You have a nice butt,” he tells her. Sue flies home to Maryland, never to hear from him again. Until he shows up on her doorstep. I’m not saying he can’t do creepy, but if Zahn showed up outside your seedy motel room — even if he were carrying a bloody chain saw instead of a bottle of wine — you would probably invite him in. And he’s the single biggest reason why this is a delightfully screwball romantic comedy and not a crazed-stalker film. And why it works. (MO)
MONSTERS VS. ALIENS (PG, 94 minutes) This super-duper, 3-D, big-screen, Imax-deluxe extravaganza has bells and whistles, superb technical sophistication, dazzling visual effects, sound, fury and Reese Witherspoon. What it doesn’t have is heart. (AH)
OBSESSED (PG-13, 108 minutes) Beyoncé Knowles is Sharon, a wife and mother threatened by a woman who is literally crazy for Sharon’s husband in this cheesy, predictable thriller. The only nuanced performance is by Idris Elba as Derek, Sharon’s stockbroker spouse. When Lisa (Ali Larter) makes a play for him and won’t accept his rebuff, the wheels are set in motion. “Obsessed” can’t end without a life-or-death fight between Sharon and Lisa, whose attempted seductions are steamy but nongraphic. JANE HORWITZ RUDO Y CURSI (R, 103 minutes) Gael García Bernal and Diego Luna are brothers Tato and Beto, two banana farmers in southern Mexico whose only escape from agrarian toil is soccer. As luck would have it, they are scouted by a sports agent 10 minutes into the movie. The more talented but less passionate one wins out, and he nails a spot on a professional team. The other sets his own course for the EARTH (G, 89 minutes) You may have seen the television ads for this debut documentary feature from DisneyNature about the struggles of three animal families to survive against the elements. They are the ads that begin, “Wherever there is life, there are stories.” That’s really what this movie is: a gorgeously photographed storybook. THE SOLOIST (PG-13, 119 minutes) The true story of a newspaper columnist

(Robert Downey Jr.) and his friendship with a schizophrenic street musician in Los Angeles (Jamie Foxx), the film is suffused with heartbreak and humanism as it takes one man's grim story — early promise, bright future, mental breakdown, despair — and turns it into a spiritual meditation on friendship. Downey plays Los Angeles Times columnist Steve Lopez, who happens upon Nathaniel Ayers (Foxx) playing a two-stringed violin in downtown Los Angeles' Pershing Square. Lopez discovers that Ayers once attended Juilliard, and his resulting columns wind up taking the writer not only into the tortured history and mind of his subject, but also into the Bosch-like world of the city's Skid Row. (AH)

STAR TREK (PG-13, 127 minutes) Let us pray. Lord of "Star Trek" and all its spinoffs, we thank thee for a movie that, against all odds, has miraculously resurrected a wheezing but beloved franchise. We thank thee for an origin story that, unlike such recent downers featuring the Incredible Hulk and Wolverine, pays affectionate respect to its source material but never falls into the trap of slavish worship. We thank thee for Zachary Quinto, who plays Spock with surprising pathos. We thank thee for a setup that pits James T. Kirk (Chris Pine) and Spock against each other, giving the film its fraternal rivalry. But most of all, we thank thee for director J.J. Abrams, who proves such an able steward of this narrative and these characters. We thank thee for imbuing Abrams with taste and conscience enough to guarantee that the franchise will once again live long and prosper. May he do the same.

Amen. (AH)

TYSON (R, 90 minutes) James Toback's film is a sort of guided tour through Mike Tyson's mind with the former prizefighter-er playing psychic usher. It tells us even more about our irresolvable contradictions: We destroy the things we love. We repeat mistakes. We dance like Muhammad Ali around the truth, even in our most candid moments. Tyson just does it more spectacularly than most. (DT)

WOLVERINE (PG-13, 107 minutes) Hugh Jackman may be the contractual star of this Marvel Comics-inspired production, which explores (creates) the history of one of Marvel's most popular and conflicted heroes, but technology is what makes the movie what it is. The story starts in 1845, in Canada, where young brothers James and Victor see the man they think is their father gunned down. Throughout history, James (Jackman) and Victor (Liev Schreiber) kick major enemy butt together. Victor/Sabretooth is always the more sadistic of the two.

He's one twisted dude, actually, and James, aka Logan, aka Wolverine, constantly has to rein him in. But you can see where this is going: conflict. (JA)

Seinfeld Is in Treatment

The comedian makes a cameo on the finale of Starz's 'Head Case'

JOKER | What do you do if you are Jerry Seinfeld? Anything you want to do. The sitcom star appears in a spoof of his own image on the second-season finale of "Head Case" (10 p.m., Starz, Fri.).

Alexandra Wentworth stars in "Head Case" as celebrity therapist Dr. Goode. Her practice allows scores of boldfaced names to cameo on the show and send up the popular notion of self-absorbed Hollywood stars. The central joke of "Head Case" is that the buttoned-down and WASPY Goode is the biggest narcissist of them all, turning every therapy session into an extension of her frazzled and ill-defined personal life.

This week, she's in New York to rescue her colleague Dr. Finkelstein from a peculiar hostage situation and takes time out to counsel Seinfeld (in a dentist's chair, of all places) about his worries. Seinfeld's central concern is his wife's therapy (with Goode). Why, he wonders, would anyone married to him, of all people, need therapy?

Back in Los Angeles, actor Craig Bierko finds his session with Goode interrupted by her insistence that Melina Kanakaredes (as herself) sit in. She's preparing the "CSI: N.Y." star for an acting role in a biography of Sigmund Freud. KEVIN MCDONOUGH (UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE)

TV Shows

SPOUSE | This weekend marks the launch of something called "Re-Inventing Bonaduce" (9 p.m., Fox Reality Channel, Sat.). It was bad enough that Danny Bonaduce got to make us sit through his has-beenery, but "Re-Inventing" stars his ex-wife, Gretchen, as she sets out to make it on her own, without her semi-successful and vaguely pathetic ex-husband, whose semi-celebrity name she clings to with the tenacity of a blood-thirsty tick. KEVIN MCDONOUGH (UNITED FEATURE SYNDICATE)

weekend lineup

PERSONAL STRUGGLES

20/20 (10 p.m., ABC, Fri.) follows four families with children afflicted with Tourette's syndrome.

BATTLE OF THE BABY QUICHE

Kristen Bell ("Heroes") guest-stars on the season finale of PARTY DOWN (10:30 p.m., Starz, Fri.) as a member of a rival catering team.

BACK IN THE SADDLE

Robin Williams appears on THE GRAHAM NORTON SHOW (10 p.m., BBC America, Sat.).

BRIDEZILLA ROARS

The latest murder wreaks havoc on the wedding-rehearsal schedule on HARPER'S ISLAND (10 p.m., CBS, Sat.).

IN MEMORIUM

A tradition continues as PBS broadcasts its 20th-consecutive NATIONAL MEMORIAL DAY CONCERT (8 p.m., PBS, ‘Wolverine’ is well-acted, with spectacular action and witty one-liners. Although it’s a quintessential popcorn movie, ‘Wolverine’ is not mindless. Director Gavin Hood and Hugh Jackman bring depth to a comic-book tale of anti-heroes with anger issues. Jackman invests his fierce character with...clear-eyed intelligence and inherent decency, compelling viewers to care about his metamorphosis.”

“EXHILARATING.”

Claudia Puig, USA TODAY

“HUGH JACKMAN IS ELECTRIFYING.”

HAVE YOU SCALED BACK YOUR MEMORIAL DAY PLANS DUE TO THE RECESSION?

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS AS OF 5 P.M.

NO 76%
YES 24%

"No. Memorial Day is about remembering those who died keeping this country safe and freedom alive, and doing what their government and population asked of them."

COMMENTER COMBAT VETERAN, WHO ADDED, "I SPEND IT CAMPING WITH SEVERAL FAMILIES I KNOW THAT SHARE THE SAME VALUES AND RESPECT FOR WHAT WE HAVE IN THIS COUNTRY."

"I have scaled my Memorial Day plans back from the ridiculous to the extravagant. I will forgo the private jet for my trip to Vegas, and only get half a floor of rooms."

COMMENTER ANOTHER PERSON, WHO ADDED, "HIRE A CAR ONLY WHEN IT'S NEEDED INSTEAD OF BEING ON STANDBY."

"JEANS WITH A DRESS?"
OMG. Furthermore, can someone out there please educate me as to what a pohaconta might be?"

BORDERSTAN.COM IS CONFUSED AFTER READING A POLICE ALERT THAT SAID A PERSON "WEARING A WOMEN'S DRESS, FEMALE JEANS AND A POHA-CONTA" COMMITTED A ROBBERY.

PAUL HIFFMEYER/DISNEY

"HOW CAN BISHOPS who are themselves mired in sin proclaim that politicians who support abortion rights should be denied Communion? Are these the same people who were protesting Obama's appearance at Notre Dame over the weekend?"

LUGOSI.BLOGSPOT.COM IS FRUSTRATED WITH THE CATHOLIC CHURCH AFTER NEWS SURFACED OF RAMPANT ABUSE IN IRISH REFORM SCHOOLS.

"After almost 100 million votes and the lowest ratings for a finale ever ... really, America? Not Adam Lambert? You picked the other guy."

VANITYFAIR.COM WAS NOT IMPRESSED BY WEDNESDAY NIGHT'S "AMERICAN IDOL" FINALE, IN WHICH KRIS ALLEN WAS NAMED THE WINNER OVER ADAM LAMBERT.

"[It] was like waking up your cranky, complaining, egomaniac grandfather an hour before the alarm goes off and telling him to talk for two hours. And it works."

DC.METBLOGS.COM REALLY HOPES THAT TONY KORNHEISER RETURNS TO LOCAL RADIO AFTER LEAVING HIS JOB AS A "MONDAY NIGHT FOOTBALL" ANNOUNCER. KORNHEISER IS A FORMER WASHINGTON POST COLUMNIST.

"WHAT IS IT about robots ... that makes men who build them want to date me? [On Wednesday] I received the SECOND online dating e-mail from a guy who is interested in artificial intelligence."

FIERYNUGGETS.BLOGSPOT.COM ISN'T QUITE SURE WHAT THE ATTRACTION IS, ADDING, "I'M, LIKE, THE SARAH CONNOR OF ONLINE DATING."

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Success is in the details — and the more you focus on the little things, the more you'll have to gain in the short and the long run.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're not one to wait until the last minute to get something done — and you'll want to tie up some loose ends before too long.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You are considerate of others, certainly, but you may find yourself focusing more on your own central issues — and rightly so.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're going to have to work hard to balance emotional needs with financial realities. The truth is, money is a major influence.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Don't rely on luck alone to see you through. Indeed, you'll want to step forward and stake an active, aggressive stance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Fairness is the key to success — and to living more harmoniously with those who, only a short time ago, were bitter rivals.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)

Someone close to you is not likely to respond well to your attempts at reconciliation or soothing. You can only do so much.

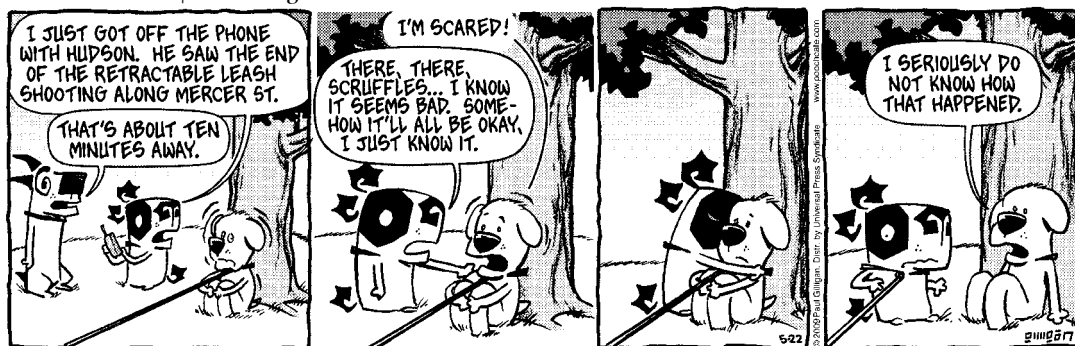

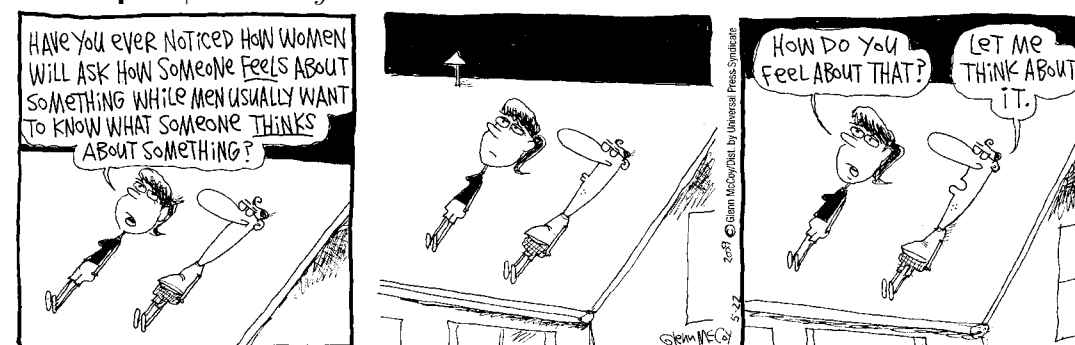

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) The more independent you try to be, the lonelier you are likely to be now and in the days to come. Don't resist social interaction.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Pay attention to any new signals your body is sending you. You may be in a position to try something new to increase health and stamina.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) You're after something that many want, and you're likely to inspire some friendly jealousy because you are closer to it than they.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If it's an edge you're after, you can have it — but be willing to dig deeper into your psyche to maximize personal strength.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Others are likely to target you for some reason, but you can avoid any serious conflict by focusing on your own endeavors independently.

1868 A major train robbery takes place near Marshfield, Ind.; members of the Reno gang make off with $96,000 in loot.

1969 The lunar module of Apollo 10, with Thomas P. Stafford and Eugene Cernan aboard, flies to within nine miles of the moon's surface in a dress rehearsal for the first lunar landing.

1992 After a reign lasting nearly 30 years, Johnny Carson hosts NBC's "Tonight Show" for the last time.

1999 Columbine High School seniors wearing blue-and-silver gowns march single file in a graduation ceremony that mixes celebration of the day with sorrow for victims of the recent massacre.

JOB HUNTING Actor Advertises Self for Roles in Political Thrillers

MICHAEL DOUGLAS spent Wednesday evening focused on ridding the world of nuclear weapons. He moderated a panel of Washington experts on the issue — former senators Chuck Hagel and Sam Nunn, and Robert Gallucci, a former U.S. diplomat who was chief negotiator during the nuclear crisis with North Korea in 1994. EXPERIENCES Unique, Fulfilling and Millions-Generating

JAY-Z has confirmed reports that he has left Def Jam, the record company where he made most of his biggest hits. He called his time with the company “a unique and fulfilling experience.” (AP)

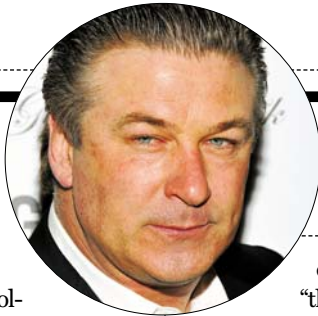

NON-DEATH Alive and Writing

PATRICK SWAYZE and wife, LISA NIEMI, are co-authoring a memoir of the actor's life to be published in the fall. He'll cover, among other topics, “his brave fight against a diagnosis of stage-four pancreatic cancer, from which he has gleaned wisdom and has remained resolutely optimistic,” said a press release. “I will write from my heart about these experiences,” Swayze said. AUDIENCE Knowing It's A Joke and Laughing Are Very Different

ALEC BALDWIN is apologizing for making a joke about getting a Filipino mail-order bride that provoked a sharp response in the Philippines. The Emmy-winning actor quipped during a May 12 interview on “The Late Show With David Letterman” that he would love to have more children and that he was “thinking about getting a Filipino mail-order bride at this point ... or a Russian one.” On Wednesday, Baldwin posted on the Huffington Post that he was apologizing “to anyone who took offense.” He said, “I believe that most people understood that this was a joke and took it as such.” (AP)

RECOVERING Singer Sports New Organ

Ailing NATALIE COLE now has a new kidney. The 59-year-old singer underwent successful kidney transplant surgery “and is resting comfortably,” publicist Maureen O'Connor said Wednesday. Cole will postpone her summer tour, which was set to begin June 5, as she recovers. Cole had been receiving dialysis three times a week since September. The kidney dialysis is unrelated to Cole's struggle with hepatitis C. (AP)

PRETEND Couple Put Up a United Front, Albeit Separately

A preview of Monday's season premiere of “Jon & Kate Plus 8” comes in the wake of reports that both JON and KATE GOSSELIN have cheated. Each of them talks to the camera alone. “Kate and I obviously have been going through a lot of stuff,” Jon Gosselin says. “My kids are the reason I have always done everything,” Kate Gosselin says.
